5. RTA Delivery Approach and Cash Flow Assessment – Status Update

Video Timestamp: 4:30

PAG/RTA staff provided an update on efforts to gather RTA project and program information from jurisdiction members that would be used as a basis for a cash flow assessment. PAG Director of Transportation Services Rick Ellis provided a brief overview of the preliminary draft RTA Planning Delivery Schedule spreadsheet that was shared with jurisdiction member agencies via email for review.

Jose Rodríguez, Town of Oro Valley, inquired if the spreadsheet was just the Roadway element or categoricals. Members were informed that it included both and showed the full granular level of detail for all the categoricals.

Kathryn Skinner, Pima County, questioned how the preliminary draft schedule layers into doing the TIP. Her concern was that projects without full funding would not get delivered. PAG Director of Strategic Planning, Programming and Policy Jamie Brown shared with members that several interconnected deliverables will be moving through the committee process over the next several months, one of which is the FY 2027 RTA Budget. These are dependent on the outcome of the March RTA Next plan election. Mr. Brown explained that part of the game plan for FY 2027 included working on a fiscally constrained project list that would inform a FY 2027 TIP amendment. He mentioned that it would lead to a fuller conversation through the committee process on the FY 2028-FY 2032 TIP development starting in the summer.

Andy Bemis, City of Tucson, questioned if the preliminary draft RTA delivery schedule tracked with project revenue projections. PAG Budget Manager James Towe shared with members that the preliminary draft schedule does not yet show the totals, but that future versions will show more details after feedback is received on the preliminary draft.

This item was for information only.

Jeremey Moore, ADOT, informed members that ADOT was trying to get the Alvernon to Valencia I-10 project into the program and completely fund the project through 2028.

PAG Program and Policy Manager Adam Ledford informed members that the submission date for the Off Systems Bridge Program for state fiscal year 2027 had been extended to before Dec. 24.
